*Commencement Commentary

The procedure followed for the awarding of degrees at UNO and most other American universities is based on a practice developed at the University of Paris almost 800 years ago. In those days the Bishop of Paris, like every other bishop, was responsible for local educational curricula and degree-granting. His authority in these matters, however, soon came to be disputed by the teachers. They asserted that only they could be the proper judges of the qualifications of their students.

This threatened impasse was resolved by a compromise, under which the teachers, or masters, judged the merits of the students and then recommended them to the Bishop for their degrees. Today's ceremony includes a secularized version of that procedure. Each dean, as representative of the faculty, certifies that the student candidates are qualified to receive their degrees. The President or other representative of the Board of Supervisors then awards the degrees.

Academic Costumes

The caps and gowns worn by graduates and faculty are based on costumes used in universities of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, particularly at Oxford and Cambridge in England. This academic dress has been used in the United States from colonial times and was standardized by an Intercollegiate Code in 1895. Like the military of medieval times with its pages, squires, and knights, the academic world has long had three basic grades of dignity and achievement. These are undergraduates, bachelors, and masters (or doctors). The distinction between masters and doctors is comparatively recent; both imply the right to teach.

Black is the most common color for academic gowns. There is no trimming on the gowns for the bachelor's or master's degrees. For the doctoral degree, the gown is faced down the front with black or colored velvet and with three bars of the same across the sleeves. The color in the master's costume is restricted to the hood worn around the neck and down the back. This is lined with silk of the colors of the institution which granted the degree and is edged with velvet of a color which indicates the subject area of the degree received. Thus the master's hood from the University of New Orleans is black, lined in silver with a blue chevron and edged in white velvet for Arts, Letters, and Humanities, copper for Accounting, drab for Business, light blue for Education, orange for Engineering, brown for Fine Arts and Urban and Regional Planning, sage green for Health and Physical Education, pink for Music, dark blue for Philosophy, peacock blue for Public Administration, and golden yellow for Sciences.

Doctors have a larger and more open hood which, like the master's hood, is lined with the colors of the degree-granting institution and trimmed with the color of the subject area of the degree received. As noted above, gowns have black or colored velvet on the sleeves and the front. A Doctor of Philosophy in Chemistry, for example, will have a black velvet-edged gown and a hood trimmed in golden yellow. Usually doctors will wear a gold tassel on their cap. In recent years, some universities have broken away from the traditional scheme and allowed their doctors to wear brighter, more original costumes; for instance, Yale's blue with black trim and Harvard's crimson and black.

Hoods are not worn by candidates for bachelor's degrees at UNO.

Candidates who are members of certain select honors societies have been granted official permission to wear specified emblems of their organizations. No other ornamentation is permitted.

Many factors — such as the nature of the institution, the size of the graduating class, the weather, and the place of ceremony (indoors or outdoors) — affect the details of academic ceremonies. Institutions have wide latitude in meeting these conditions, and consequently there is considerable variation in customs. At UNO the commencement procession is composed of representatives of the faculty and a platform party consisting of administrative officials, representatives of the Board of Supervisors, the commencement speaker, the person giving the benediction and invocation, and distinguished guests.

Degrees are conferred in descending order, with doctorates first and bachelor's degrees last.

The University of New Orleans, then L.S.U.N.O., conferred its first bachelor's degrees to 65 candidates at the Spring Commencement of 1962. Its first master's degrees were awarded to six graduate students in 1965 and the first doctoral degree in 1967.

* Adapted in part from American Universities and Colleges, 6th Edition, Washington; American Council on Education, 1971.

University Mace

The University of New Orleans Mace is borne before the Platform Party as a symbol of authority in the Procession and Recession. The Platform Party is composed of the Chancellor, members of the Board of Supervisors, other University authorities, and distinguished guests.

The Mace was first presented on September 6, 1988 at the Academic Convocation commemorating the University's September 5, 1958 opening ceremony. Commissioned in January, 1988, the Mace was conceptualized by Professor Howard Jones, Chairman of the Department of Fine Arts, and refined and executed by Mr. Doug MacCash, a graduate assistant working under the supervision of Professor Jones.

The Mace's bronze head is mounted on a mahogany shaft and has many levels of imagery. Subtle features of the artifact symbolize the composition, mission, and vitality of the University. Emblematic of authority, the Mace has the name and year of appointment of each of the University's Chancellors engraved on separate bronze rings at the base of the shaft.

The Chancellor's Medallion

Traditionally, a university's chief executive officer possesses a badge of office that he or she wears at convocations, commencements, or other ceremonial occasions. To honor that custom, the Chancellor's Medallion was struck and presented on the occasion of the inauguration of Dr. Leon J.V. Richelle, UNO's second chancellor, in 1981 and is worn by all successors to that office.

The obverse side of the sterling silver medallion features the University of New Orleans emblem, while the reverse side bears the inscription of all past UNO chancellor's names and a dedication from the UNO faculty.

Academic Honors

The University of New Orleans recognizes students who attain academic honors in either of two manners.

A student may pursue the normal curriculum of a subject area and obtain honors standing by virtue of high grades. There are three designations in this category: summa cum laude (with highest praise), which requires an overall grade-point average of 3.960-4.000; magna cum laude (with great praise), which requires an overall grade-point average of 3.860-3.959; and cum laude (with praise), requiring an average of 3.760-3.859.

By participating in the University Honors Program with permission, meeting the special curricular requirements of the Honors Program, writing a senior honors thesis, and earning at least a 3.50 grade-point average in the courses of the subject major and a 3.25 grade-point average in all courses attempted, a student graduates with University Honors. A student may also follow a special curriculum in one of several areas and graduate with honors in _____ (the particular field). In addition to taking the designated curriculum the student must maintain a grade-point average of at least 3.50 in the subject area and at least 3.25 in all work taken.

We are pleased to recognize the following students as honor graduates at this commencement:

Honorary Doctor of Financial Economics
Mr. James R. Moffett

James R. Moffett is Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Freeport-McMoRan Inc.

Born in 1938 in Houma, Louisiana and reared in Houston, Texas, Mr. Moffett attended the University of Texas at Austin on a full football scholarship, receiving a bachelor of science degree with special honors in geology in 1961. As a two-year letterman in football, Mr. Moffett played tackle for Coach Darrell Royal from 1957 to 1961. In 1960, he received the Ex-Students' Association "T" Award, a scholarship presented to the senior Longhorn football player with the highest scholastic average during his career at UT. Mr. Moffett also merited a Minnie Stevens Piper Foundation Scholarship Award in geology that year.

Mr. Moffett joined the Army ROTC in 1956, serving on active duty from April to August, 1961, before joining the U.S. Army Reserve. In 1968, he was promoted to Captain in the reserve and is now retired Captain, U.S. Army.

Mr. Moffett received a master of science degree in geology from Tulane University in 1963.

From 1964 to 1969, Mr. Moffett was a consulting geologist in the oil and gas industry, and in 1969, he helped organize McMoRan Exploration Co., as one of the three managing partners.

In 1981, Mr. Moffett put together one of the largest corporate mergers in the history of Wall Street — the merging of McMoRan Oil and Gas Co. and Freeport Minerals Corporation into Freeport-McMoRan Inc.

Mr. Moffett has been an active community leader. A member of the board of The Chamber/New Orleans and the River Region, Mr. Moffett served as that board's chairman in 1988.

Mr. Moffett has also served as chairman of the boards of the Louisiana Council for Fiscal Reform, and the Metropolitan Arts Fund, Inc., as vice president of the South Louisiana, Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, and on the board of directors of the MetroVision Partnership Foundation. A member of the National Petroleum Council and the All-American Wildcatters since 1979, Mr. Moffett served on the Louisiana Commission of Pan American Affairs in 1990 and the Commission on the Future of the South in 1986.

Mr. Moffett has been a generous supporter of higher education, establishing numerous scholarships, professorships, and endowments at his two alma maters. He is a member of the board of the UNO Foundation and serves as head of the Board of Visitors of the UNO College of Business Administration, providing leadership in establishing support within the local business community for education activities in the college.

In 1992, Freeport-McMoRan donated $1.6 million to establish a Center for Environmental Modeling within UNO's planned Center for Energy Resources Management (CERM). Part of the funding will create the Freeport-McMoRan Chair in Environmental Modeling. The center will focus its research on such areas as ocean and coastal circulation, global climate changes, water quality and hydrology, ecology, and remote sensing.

Mr. Moffett has been honored through the years for his community service. Most recently, he has received the 1990 Horatio Alger Association of Distinguished Americans Award; the National Football Hall of Fame Distinguished American Award (New Orleans chapter), 1991; the Anti-Defamation League's Torch of Liberty Award, 1991; the Crime Abatement Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the American Society for Industrial Security's 1991 Crime Abatement Crystal Tribute; and the Louisiana NAACP's Person of the Year award for 1992.

WHEREAS, for many years Mr. James R. Moffett has been an active and dedicated supporter of the University of New Orleans; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Moffett serves as head of the Board of Visitors of the College of Business Administration and has provided leadership in establishing support within the New Orleans business community for education activities in the College; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Moffett and his firm, Freeport-McMoRan Inc, have dedicated substantial resources to the advancement of teaching and research in the College of Business Administration; and

WHEREAS, through his founding of the New Orleans Business Council and his many other activities, he is at the forefront of economic development for the New Orleans metropolitan area; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Moffett exemplifies the active participation and involvement of committed citizens that is essential to the continued success of the University of New Orleans; and

WHEREAS, the Faculty of the College of Business Administration recommended that Mr. Moffett be awarded an honorary degree and this recommendation has been endorsed by the appropriate administrators of the University of New Orleans; and

WHEREAS, the Systemwide Committee on Awarding Honorary Degrees, the Vice President for Academic Affairs, and the President of the Louisiana State University System have reviewed and approved this recommendation:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Board of Supervisors of Louisiana State University and Agricultural and Mechanical College does hereby award the degree of Doctor of Financial Economics, honoris causa, to Mr. James R. Moffett, for presentation by the University of New Orleans at the May 20, 1993, commencement exercises.

Distinguished Professor of English
Dr. Carol Gelderman

Carol Gelderman, a noted biographer and educator, has been awarded the rank of Distinguished Professor of English at the University of New Orleans.

Dr. Gelderman is the seventh UNO faculty member to receive this designation, which is reserved for those Louisiana State University System faculty members who have established "a truly distinguished national and international scholarly reputation" and have "an outstanding record in teaching."

Dr. Gelderman, who until this appointment held the rank of Research Professor of English, joined the UNO faculty in 1972. Prior to that she was a teaching fellow at Northwestern University where she earned both her master's and doctoral degrees in English with a speciality in modern drama. Dr. Gelderman is also a graduate of Manhattanville College, which in 1991 honored her with a Distinguished Alumni in the Arts Award.

Dr. Gelderman has also been honored for her writings. Her biography, Mary McCarthy, A Life, was cited as one of New York Times Book Review's outstanding books of 1988 and as the best literary biography of 1989 by Editors of Great Britain. Her article, "Critics and How They Got That Way," published in the June 1990 issue of American Theatre, was cited by the American Critics Association as the best critical piece of the year.

Other of Dr. Gelderman's biographies are Henry Ford, The Wayward Capitalist, which received a cover review in Business Week in 1981, and the just released Becoming a Writer, The Life of Louis Auchincloss. She is also the author of two textbooks, Better Business Writing and Better Writing for Professionals.

At UNO, Dr. Gelderman teaches a survey of modern and contemporary theater and has conducted graduate seminars in modern Irish, British, and American drama. Her publishing record illustrates her interest in theatre. She served as editor for the Irish section of the five-volume McGraw-Hill Encyclopedia of World Drama and has written articles on theater for EIRE-Ireland, Prairie Schooner, Modern Drama, and American Theatre, as well as a book on Irish playwright George Fitzmaurice.

She has also taught graduate-level courses in genres of non-fiction writing and honors courses in biographical and autobiographical writing. In 1974, she was responsible for designing the technical writing course for engineering majors, which is now a requirement of the engineering curriculum. Because of her work in biography, Dr. Gelderman was instrumental in developing of an upper-level course in reading and writing nonfiction, which she teaches on a regular basis.

A member of the board of the New Orleans Writers' Conference, Dr. Gelderman served as theater commentator for Maryland Public TV's 26-part television series, "Literary Visions," which aired in 1992 and is being distributed to colleges and universities throughout the United States in 1993. She has also served as senior consultant, interviewer, and author of a one-hour documentary on Louisiana Congresswoman Lindy Boggs for Maryland Public TV.

Dr. Gelderman is one of only five members of P.E.N., Poets, Essayists, Novelists, in New Orleans. She is organizing the local branch of this worldwide writers organization with the purpose of doing reading-writing programs in the elementary schools.

Dr. Gelderman, who is listed in Contemporary Authors and in Who's Who in American Education, is currently researching a book on language and the American presidency. Her manuscript, Reading Plays, a guide to reading as opposed to viewing plays, is in publication.

The Alma Mater

UNO, our Alma Mater
Proud we stand to sing your fame
UNO
We honor your dear name.

Mem'ries will linger on
When our years with you have gone
And keep us true to the Silver and Blue.

Lyrics by Deborah H. Crosby

Music from
The Overture to the Consecration of the House
by Ludwig van Beethoven
